G: Good idea, Jack. What do you think about the second part?

J: Now that you've asked me, I think it's too short. You should include much more information about your work experience.

G: You're right. I'll change it. How do you feel about the last part of the letter?

J: Very good. But, unless I miss my guess, you should say something about your family, too.

G: I agree. I appreciate your helping me, Jack. Do you think the end is all right?

J: Oh, yes, George. But personally I believe a business letter should end with "Very truly yours", not "Sincerely".

G: I guess I'd better tear up the letter and start over again.

J: Oh, don't do that, George! Just make the few changes I suggested, and your letter will be perfect!

第十三拿手好戏：随手写出地道英语信件——生活和商务

Dear Allen,

[1] I just received your letter and I want to let you know my opinion of your plans for the future. I hope you won't take offense, but will accept what I say here as some fatherly advice.

[2] I was quite surprised when I read in your letter that you had decided not to finish your studies at the university. I realize that Peter wants you to marry him this summer. But with only one more year to go, you would be well advised to finish. A year is really a short time, and later you will be glad you postponed getting married.

[3] As you know, my reaction to Peter was extremely favorable when I met him. He's an exceptionally fine young man and should be a good husband. But I suggest you complete your education first.

[4] You are twenty-one, a grown-up young lady old enough to make up your own mind. This is something you'll have to work out yourself. As your uncle, I have always tried not to interfere in your affairs and I don't intend to begin now. But, my dear niece, please do consider my words very carefully before you decide. Whatever you do, though, Allen, you know I only want one thing for you, and that is your happiness.

Affectionately, Uncle John

★ well-advised /ill-advised =wise /unwise:明智的/不明智

例: You would be well-advised to stay at home today.

Therefore, Ms. Smith has asked me to tell you that a meeting would not be helpful at this time.
